Date Adopted: Ratified by Policy and Resources 7.10.20

Review Date: October 2023

Author: Richard Spencer-Williams (Town Clerk)

1. Introduction

This Equality Policy outlines Malmesbury Town Council's commitment, responsibilities and scope for ensuring equality is an integral part of the way we reach decisions, provide services, recruit and support employees and work with other organisations.

2. Statement of Intent

Malmesbury Town Council are committed to ensuring equality, fairness, inclusion and good relations are at the heart of everything we do - be it employment, policymaking or service delivery. It recognises its moral and legal responsibilities for promoting and safeguarding the principle of equality and anti-discriminatory practice. Furthermore it is recognising the benefit of this in ensuring a safe and respectful Council environment for service users, staff, councillors and partners alike. The Council recognises the potential for social and business benefits of treating people with respect, recognising and valuing difference. The Council also recognises and is committed where reasonably practical to removing barriers that prevent people from participating fully in Council processes or services.

Implementation of this policy is the responsibility of Malmesbury Town Council including councillors, employees, and others acting on its behalf.

3. Legal Requirements

Equality Act

Section 19 combined with Equality Duty, as laid out in Equality Act 2011, places a responsibility for local Councils to consider the following protected characteristics; race, religion, age, disability, gender reassignment, pregnancy and maternity, sex, marriage and civil partnership, and sexual orientation when carrying out its functions and services. All these characteristics can have a bearing on how inclusive a council or a community can be.

Under the Act everyone has the right to be treated fairly at work or when using services. It protects people from direct and indirect discrimination on the basis of these protected characteristics.

Equality Duty

The public sector Equality Duty came into force on 5th April 2011 and is a key measure under the Equality Act 2010.

The Equality Duty ensures that all public bodies play their part in making society fairer by tackling discrimination and providing equality of opportunity for all.

Public authorities are required, in carrying out their functions, to have due regard to the need to achieve the objectives set out under s149 of the Equality Act 2010 to:

(a) eliminate discrimination, harassment, victimisation and any other conduct that is prohibited by or under the Equality Act 2010;

- (b) advance equality of opportunity between persons who share a relevant protected characteristic and persons who do not share it;
- (c) foster good relations between persons who share a relevant protected characteristic and persons who do not share it.

Commitment to Diversity

Malmesbury Town Council values diversity and the opportunities it brings to both our workforce and local communities. Diversity of thought is particularly important in a workplace that is designed to offer support and services to meet the demands of the broader public groups. As such the diversity within our workforce along with the data we collect around our communities enables us to continually improve our services.

The Equality Act 2010 was introduced to consolidate previous equality laws into one place, removing some of the complexity around having multiple pieces of legislation. As a Council we utilise the legislation to ensure all our staff, volunteers and members of our communities are protected. The legislation sets out the personal characteristics that are protected by the law and the behaviour that is unlawful. The legislation is in place to help Britain become a fairer society, improve public services, and help business performance. Malmesbury Town Council is committed to making a real difference to the lives of people in Malmesbury. The Council want to reduce the level of risk and harm to our communities targeting those most at risk, we will use the protected characteristics outlined by the Equality Act 2010 to identify opportunities to enhance our services to better support our communities and our workforce.
